Democratic voter turn-out produces run-off races

BY GEOFF BELCHER News Editor

Despite a relatively quiet few weeks leading up to Tuesday's primary elections in Hancock County, voters turned out to the polls in force, re-nominating incumbent Sheriff Steve Garber and ousting current District 1 Supervisor Lyonie "Jeep"

A total of 7,669 voters cast their ballots in the Democratic primary; and nearly 1,900 in Republican primary.

"I think it was good for the Democrats," Lila Taylor of the Hancock Circuit Clerk's office said vesterday. "It was about a third of the registered voters - and we usually run at only about 23 or 24 percent."

And the turn-out was beneficial to most of the including incumbents, Garber, who earned 3,865 votes in unofficial tallies to take the Democratic nomination. Garber had faced stiff competition from former sheriff Ronald A. "Ronnie" Peterson and the Bay St. Louis Police Department's Chief Investigator Thomas J. "Tom" Burleson.

Peterson earned 2,961 Tuesday evening; Burleson,

Garber will now face Republican candidate Richard "Ricky" Fayard in the Nov. 4 general election. Fayard, who ran unopposed, earned 1,515 votes Tuesday. Ladner, however, lost the Democratic nomination for his District 1 supervisor seat to David Yarborough. Yarborough scored 907 votes to Ladner's 660.

Bay, Waveland annexation bids head for court

BY MARY G. SEILEY Staff Writer

An Oct. 13 annexation hearing has been set for Bay St. Louis in Chancery Court - two days before Waveland's annexation bid gets its first hearing in the same court. The neighboring cities are in a race to add territory along Hwy. 603 to their boundaries, with overlapping requests that lead all the way to prime undeveloped property at the intersection of Interstate 10.

Chancery Court Judge Jim Persons is set to preside in the proceedings - although it's more likely that an out-of-county judge will be assigned to that role before the hearing. Local judges often ask to be spared from the politically volatile job of ruling in annexation

Tuesday night, Bay St. Louis City Council held a closed door meeting with its annexation consultant, Mike Slaughter, and the legal team assembled for the annexation lawsuit.

Bay officials adopted an annexation ordinance on June 17, five weeks before Waveland officials scrambled in response to attempt a similar annexation. One key difference is that the Bay's ordinance would sweep in several developed subdivisions, while Waveland's would take in mostly undeveloped land.

Both want frontage along the west side of Hwy. 603, and both want to add the highly developable property at Interstate 10. Both cities have sued each other to accomplish their annexations.

The upcoming Bay hearing theoretically could result in a judge approving that city's annexation ordinance - that's only if no opposition appears at the hearing. And that's highly unlikely, given the Waveland annexation attempt and other potential opposition from residents or other governmental author-

Waveland officials had contended publicly that because they filed their annexation ordinance in court two days before the Bay did so, Waveland would have the legal advantage to "go first" in the proceedings. However, the Bay's legal council termed that position "unfounded wishful thinking,' and contended that Monday Justice officials Bay St. Louis' case would be heard first because the Bay adopted its ordinance long before Waveland did so.

The annexation contest could take two years to resolve.

other business Tuesday, Bay council members learned that it must file a request with the federal Department of Justice on redistricting. Results of the 2000 Census showed the city's predominately black Ward 3 has 24 percent fewer residents than it should have statistically. The neighboring Ward 4, predominately white, has almost 19 percent more residents than it should.

Mayor Eddie Favre said may not require the city to make a redistricting filing, since local officials want to leave the ward lines as they are, protecting the black majority district.

But he said on Tuesday the staff had learned that Justice will require a formal approval process in the matter. Ward 3 council member Tom Favre has garnered letters of support from area black churches and the National Association for Advancement of Colored People in a quest to keep his ward lines intact.

In other matters, council adopted an ordinance which will allow use of "streamers" without time constraints in C-3 districts, as long as the streamers aren't dilapidated. In other zoning districts, banners or streamers are allowed only for two weeks, during any quarter of the year for each business. The ordinance also defines what a streamer is: "a long narrow flag or pennant."

Another ordinance council approved expands regulations over residential fences. Under the new rules, fences which aren't over three feet tall will be allowed beyond the required front yard setback line, as long as they don't hinder visibility for vehicles entering streets.

Otherwise, fences in all residential districts can't extend beyond the front yard setback lines. Where property runs from one street to another, fences can't exceed the front yard setback line for either bents in local races Tuesday won their party's nominations, including current District 2 Supervisor Rodrick "Rocky" Pullman, who earned 1,213 votes to opponent Rickey Paige's 584. There were no Republican candidates in that race, so Pullman has effectively already won reelection, barring any problems when vote totals are finalized.

Council also adopted an ordinance setting fees for specialty contractors' licenses at $25. Those fees will apply to contractors dealing with sprinkler systems, fire suppression and alarms, swimming pools, roofing and other such amenities.

In District 3, incumbent Supervisor Lisa L. Cowand, a Republican, defeated her rival Scott M. Hahn by a 724-152 margin. She will now face Democratic candidate Louie M. Ladner, who earned a total 912 votes, in November.

District 4 Supervisor Steve Seymour won the respective race. Incumbent Democratic nomination, Norma C. Stiglet, the defeating Wayne Whitney 1.131 to 313. He will square off against Republican candidate Bobby R. Glover in the general election.

District 5 Supervisor Jay Cuevas defeated opponent Joe Necaise 1.028 to 380. Cuevas will face Republican candidate Nell Frisbie, who won her party's nomination with 328 votes Tuesday to rival Perry Berens' 114 and E. Marvin Thompson's 60.

Circuit Clerk Pamela Thomas Metzler. Democrat, defeated opponent Herman Johnson 5,381 to 1,905. Metzler will face Republican Emilie Magnon, who earned 1,642, in the general election.

Neither coroner candidate faced opposition in her Democrat, earned 6,504 votes. Republican Mary Odom took home 1,637.

The districts 1 and 2 constable's races were a little bit closer: In District 1, Democrat Terry Necaise earned 1,153 votes to Phillip incumbent Pavolini's 1,018. In District 2, Democrat Ernest Taylor earned 729 votes; Mary "Izzy" Coster earned 684; Ray Seal, 649; and Carl Berry Sr., 308. There were no Republicans in that race.

In District 3, neither Democrat Eric Moran Sr. nor Republican candidate Kurt Necaise faced opposition. Moran took home 2.004 votes; Necaise, 98. The two men will face each other in November.

In the Place 1 Justice Court judge race, again, neither candidate was opposed. The Democrat. incumbent Judge Ricky earned 1,993; Adam, Republican Roland Flowers,

Super Wal-Mart on schedule

BY BENNIE SHALLBETTER Staff Writer

Despite months of rain, construction is on schedule at the new Super Walmart in Waveland. The store is expected to open for business around September 15, said Compton engineer Bob Escher.

The company will officially take possession of the building on August 11 and opening are typically held around five weeks after that date, Escher said.

Right now the only hold up seems to be the new traffic signals that will direct traffic in and out of the store parking area at Hwy. 90. The poles are going to come a little later than expected on September 2, but should take no longer than a couple of day to install, said Escher.

Meanwhile the debate is whether to go ahead and stripe Hwy. 90 so it will be ready to go as soon as the signal lights are installed. Apparently MDOT frowns on stripping the road before signals are installed at intersections.

"I'm very pleased with the progress," said Charles Gray as the meeting wrapped up.

As a political hot potato, the proposal in various forms has been relegated to the back burner for years at a stretch. Ward 2 council member

Jim Thriffiley, whose district encompasses much of the city's historic structures, has presided over two recent workshops to help diffuse public and political concerns over the measure.

Tuesday, Mayor Eddie Favre provided council members and preservationists bowls of gumbo before the special 5 p.m. workshop session, generating a congenial start to the deliberations.

Still, there were some reservations expressed about the ordinance itself and the very concept of a new layer of government control over private property.

One key sticking point evaporated almost immediately: council members accepted a definition for "landmarks" that the ordinance will govern, insuring that term covers "structures" rather than mere of historical

At-large council member Bill Taylor had circulated a revised draft of the ordiwhich inadvertently defined by City Council. "landmarks" as locations

Taylor's attempted to meet the concerns of Gregory G. Kergosien, who owns a historic home on Carroll Avenue. Kergosien said in a June letter to council that the ordinance's use of the term "resource" interchangeably with "landmark" or "landmark site" indicated a public owner-

Gray and the historical society's past president, Brehm Bell, agreed with the would have authority to new definition, because it includes use of the word "structure."

He said if he wanted to do so, he should have the right to construct a modern building, with vinyl siding and chrome features, in between two historic structures.

Bell said the idea of giving the commission say over the appearance of new construction in historic areas is to keep the basic historic image in place, rather than see it invaded by a "one-hundred-twenty foot dinosaur."

Yet, Bell several times noted that the commission's actions are subject to appeal to City Council. And he said the ordinance has several provisions that should calm public concerns over a new bureau-

"We need to make it so that people aren't freaking out" over the ordinance, said Bell.

Seal's other objections included the commission's right to refuse demolition permits in certain cases. Preservationists again noted that City Council overturn any of the commission's actions.

Gray said a case in point was the recent demolition of an historic home that could have been saved. A plastic pool building replaced the old building. told her she was tacky with no taste," Gray said, "and it'll be a piece of trash in 10 years."

But Gray said if the commission had been in place to rule on the demolition, at least, it could have worked with the owner to find someone to move the old home. He agreed that in the end, the decision to demolish should remain with the owner.

Thriffiley said that a revised version of the ordinance proposal would be crafted for council's review.

Kudos on 'Lost Community' series

Letter to Editor,

Kudos to The Sea Coast Echo'and Bennie Shallbetter for the series of articles about Hancock County's "lost communities."

Through her sensitive reporting, Bennie has painted a portrait of what life was like here decades ago. I'm sure her stories awakened many memories for some of Hancock County's older residents. For people like me who weren't here before Stennis Space Center arrived, it awakened my imagination of those earlier times.

Too much of our history is being lost because/no one is taking oral histories from our aging residents. Thank you for making a significant contribution to preserving some of that history.

Sincerely, Nan Ehrbright

Actually, with the huge new Nissan auto plant at Canton coming on line in May, bringing solid figures that 5,600 new high-paying manufacturing jobs will be injected into the state's economy, Mississippi is bucking the national trend.

"Mississippi is doing better than the rest of the nation this year in creating employment," stated a report Mississippi's economic outlook released by the Center for Policy Research and Planning, a unit of the State College Board.

The report went on to say that the number of persons employed in the state grew 0.4 percent in the first quarter of 2003 compared to the first quarter of last year, while nationally the number dropped.

Historically, because of its thin economy, still heavily dependent on agriculture, this state has struggled to get off the bottom of almost every national economic and educational index.

Landing an auto manufacturing plant for two decades was a Mississippi dream, that was always shattered when Toyota or Nissan or Mercedes Benz chose to go elsewhere in the South. That's why when Nissan decided, on Ronnie Musgrove's watch, to come to Mississippi, it was a huge departure from the state's long history of chasing smokestacks with cheap, non-union labor.

Musgrove can't be comliterally launched a Industry" program that 640 out of work.

using public funding to erect buildings and even provide equipment to lure plants and provide jobs.

But there's no doubt Musgrove hasn't just sat on his backside and let grass grow in the streets of Mississippi's financially-strapped towns and cities.

A political writer for The (New Orleans) Times-Picayune recently took a look into Mississippi's gubernatorial campaign. She wrote that Musgrove, with Nissan and other economic coups in his resume' could win hands down in Louisiana. Republican Gov. Mike Foster (who's now term-limited), she said, did nothing while our "perennially poor neighbors over in Mississippi leave us in the dust."

It doesn't take a smidgen of courage now for a Mississippi politician, namely Barbour, to denigrate economic progress that has been made the past several efforts by local officials to get the company to utilize the plant in some way to provide jobs, and a workforce retraining program put on by the Musgrove Administration, International Paper walked away.

International Paper has been a major beneficiary of Mississippi's coddling of the timber industry, all the way from an absurdly low state timber severance tax to local tax breaks. Natchez Mayor Hank Smith, III says, "I don't know of any tax exemption that the city or county has not given International Paper."

Meantime, the momentary euphoria when a small percentage of Mississippians get $400 rebate checks from the Bush Administration's income tax cut, will be short-lived when the next state administration finds the tax cut is going to cost the state a big chunk of lost revenue from the new dividend exemption.

Washington's Center on Budget and Policy Priorities says states face a loss of $37 billion over the coming 10 years because their income taxes are tied to the federal tax. Mississippi, it says, will lose $220 million.

wounded veterans a day. Last week I visited several hundred more wounded soldiers at Walter Reed Hospital Armv Washington, DC. I have never met such patriotic, dedicated and committed young men.

To a man, each wanted to be back in Iraq with his buddies, with his unit. One young man from Micronesia, who had lost both legs and a arm, was just staring at the ceiling, obviously wondering how he would be able to cope with living. Another young man from Pennsylvania wasn't staring at anything. He was blind. One leg had been amputated and his arm mangled. Another had his leg crushed by a tank.

Each of them, like thousands of their brothers and sisters in previous wars, was passing through Walter Reed on their way, eventually, to a VA hospital, joining those in the long, long line waiting for care because the system is desperately under funded.

I suggest that Congress make a point of visiting Walter Reed and the local VA hospitals in Washington they're right up the street from where they voted yesterday to decimate the VA medical budget. These men and women are not merely numbers; they're not merely statistics. They are the human toll taken by war, and we owe them first priority in any budget decision made on behalf of the American people.

The inevitable result of Congress ignoring its duty and breaking its promise will be deprivation for those who have paid the price for freedom. I can't help but wonder what is happening to the moral fiber of our country when those we have elected turn their backs on the bravest of the brave.

In 2004, the United States will be dedicating a memorial to the 16 million men and women who fought in World War II. We already have memorials for the 15 million who fought in Korea and Vietnam. Today, we have soldiers in more than 130 countries waging a war on terrorism whose end is not yet in sight.

During the past 60 years, nearly every family in America has sent one or more of their sons and daughters to fight somewhere in defense of freedom. Don't you think that the very least we owe them is adequate medical care provided in a timely manner?

 $N_0$ community untouched by war. Somewhere in your neighborhood there flies a Blue Star Banner, or Gold Star Banner, signifying a sacrifice made by a family on the altar of freedom. Do you think that these families - do you think that these Americans -- will stand idly by while Congress refuses to fully care for those who bore the battle?

I don't think so. America will not accept this VA budget. We will take this fight directly to the people and there will be no armistice until every veteran, everywhere, receives the medical care so richly deserved. The writer is national commander of the 2.8-million member American Legion, the nation's largest veterans organization.

located between Lakeshore Blvd. and Bayou Caddy on the beachfront and plans propose that the sand beach project stop on either side of the site, leaving what Keath calls a water basin in between, where the casino and parking would be locat-

The sand beach would be held back on either side by a If brothers Keath and rip rap jetty, Keath said, and include a fishing pier that would extend into the Sound as a part of the casino complex.

Ladners eyeing Bayou Caddy casino

The Ladners originally planned to build the casino as the first stage in their multi-phased development, Keath said, but were told that a statewide environmental impact study on casino developments was underway and would have to be completed before any new permits were issued for casino developments.

"We understand that the statement should be issued in late September or early October," said Keath.

Meanwhile, the family decided to go on with other plans and built the marina just north of the site on Bayou Caddy.

They are now looking at building a restaurant at the marina and two stages of mid-scale waterfront condos, with boat access, Keath said, totaling about 90 units.

If all goes well with the sand beach project, the family is also planning a phase of upscale condos inland from the sand beach at Lakeshore, he said. An RV park is planned for a site just west of the marina

For now, the project will have to go through a lot red tape and many permitting processes. As well as local officials approval, the family will have to win the approval of several state agencies as well as Secretary of State Eric Clark, Keath said, but are willing to do what they must to realize their dream. "We want to make the area a resort destination,' he said. Meanwhile, McCarlie, who is involved with another other casino project with Dynasty Inc. (the former Phoenix Leisure), at the site of the old Jubilee casino by Bayou Caddy, says his philosophy is the more the merrier. Word of the project won't change his group's plans at all, he said.

"My hat is off to the Ladners for the beautiful job that they have done on the Islander Marina and for the improvement it made in the neighborhood," said McCarlie on Wednesday. "I think it is all positive and anything they do will help us all ... I wish them well."

McCarlie said his group is still planning to go forward as soon as financing is in place.

Chancery Clerk Tim Kellar said he feels that the county has to encourage economic development like the casino projects.

"Whether you are for or against gaming, it is here, and the projects will bring jobs and revenue into the county," Kellar said.

Locks of Love

There was a great turnout at the Locks of Love Hair-A-Thon on July 19 at the Cutting Edge in Waveland. A total of 16 people (children and adults) were present on the day of the Hair-A-Thon. There were nine people who donated their hair earlier in the month after hearing about the Locks of Love event. Anne Prendergast organized the event in conjunction with Holly and staff at the Cutting Edge. Sponsors included Sav-a-Center, Daddy O's, Bay-Waveland Pizza, and Domino's. A total of 25 ponytalls were mailed to Locks of Love after the event. All ponytails were 10 inches or longer. # PCYC to host Knost Regatta

THE SEA COAST ECHO The Pass Christian Yacht Club (PCYC) will be the defending champion in the 66th Knost Regatta to be sailed Aug. 9.10.

Since 1938, skipperettes and crews have returned annually to PCYC to participate in the Bernard L. Knost "All Ladies" sailing championship.

From 1938 until 1947, the Knost was sailed in Fish Class sloops. The hurricane of 1947 devastated the entire Gulf Coast, and all the fish boats at PCYC were sunk in their slips.

The clubhouse, then located on the median on West Scenic overlooking the

NASA selects USM professor for $604,000 Fellowship Program

professor in The program captures NASA's University  $\mathbf{of}$ Southern Mississippi's School of Computer Science and Statistics is inspiring the next generation of space explorers.

Dr. Jim Miller, an associate professor of computer science at Southern Miss' Gulf Park campus, has been selected to participate in the NASA Faculty Fellowship Program (NFTP) at Stennis Space Center.

Funded at $604,141 over three years, the grant will shared between Southern Missand Southern University of Baton Rouge, and used to coordinate a long-standing educational thrust that brings faculty members to NASA sites for research opportunities. These experiences are designed to provide university faculty with research and instructional tools that will enrich their teaching practices, motivating students to pursue careers in science, mathematics, technology and engineering.

"We consider a grant that puts us in a better position to compete for additional research dollars from an agency such as NASA to be a very good grant," said Miller, who will serve in an administrative role for the program. Housed under Education Enterprise, the NFTP is a nationwide propromoting the exchange of ideas between faculty and NASA employees. By engaging minority and underrepresented faculty and students in its educational programs, the research.

Miller and Southern Miss for receiving this honor," U.S. Rep. Gene Taylor (D-Miss.) said. "Dr. Miller is helping to strengthen the credentials of an already well-respected faculty at Southern Miss. I am sure this program will be mutually beneficial and further the relationship between Southern Miss Stennis."

The program at Stennis began in 1990 and has to date brought Southern Miss about $2 million, Miller said, with about $500,000 coming in 2002-03. One hundred thirty-five faculty members have participated at Stennis, with 10 faculty members coming from Southern Miss.

"Because the program involves faculty members in 10 weeks of on-site research activity, it serves as a natural platform for additional funding through NASA," Miller said.

In addition to furthering the professional knowledge of qualified engineering and science faculty members, other objectives of the NFTP include: stimulating an exchange of ideas between participants and employees of NASA; contributing to the research objectives of the NASA Center; and providing faculty insight into NASA's future human resources needs and education program opportunities for student engagement in NASA early intervention program of the South Mississippi Regional Center, celebrated its annual graduation ceremony July 10 at the West County Harrison Community Center, honoring 93 preschool graduates from Hancock, Harrison, Jackson, George, Stone and Pearl River counties.

Project PRINTS, an acronym for Partnerships Responsive Intervention Newborn to School, works with children ages zero to three who are diagnosed with a developmental disability.

Students graduate when they transition from the early intervention program to their local school system or Head Start Center.

Administered by the Department of Mental Health, the program provides a wide range of services to infants and children are experiencing roject PRINTS, the delays and to their families: The goal is to minimize these delays and increase the potential for future development.

> Services through Project PRINTS are provided by 28 staff persons including certified special education teachers, paraprofessional teaching assistants, speech pathologists, parent educators, and a social worker. Occupational and physical therapy may be provided on an as needed basis.

Services through Project PRINTS are free of charge and referrals are confidential. Project PRINTS service sites are located in Biloxi, Gautier, Gulfport, Lakeshore, Long Beach and

George and Stone counties are served through the Gautier office. The administration office of Project PRINTS at 228-867-1434 will provide information to parents interested in learning about the early intervention program.

Children enrolled in the program may exhibit delays in physical skills, speech and language abilities, educational developments, or a combination of these areas.

Admission into the program requires a current medical examination and identification of a developmental disability.

An individualized educational plan is then developed for each child based on his or her needs and the needs of the family.

Research has shown that reaching children at an early age can have positive results in the child's home and in future school set-

The victim in Biloxi said the solicitor is a black male, fairly tall.

In Gulfport the person was described as a black male about 5 foot 4 inches and somewhat stocky, around 200 pounds. There could be more than one person. •

If anyone has any information on this or they have been a victim they are asked to call the Gulfport Police and refer-and provide as much information as possible. In Biloxi, people are asked to call the Biloxi Police Department.

The Boys and Girls Club is not having any fundraiser of this type and has filed a compliant with local police and needs the community's help in stopping this criminal activity.

There have also been reports of someone soliciting school supplies for the Boys and Girls Club but no such solicitation has been approved by the organization.

Magilla Perilla became famous before gardeners even got a chance to try it. It is the plant that has shoppers everywhere counting the days until it is available at local garden centers.

With a name like that, even I could have marketed it. It may be the name that has captured the gardener's imagination now, but upon growing Magilla, everyone will tout its exotic beauty and durability. Magilla Perilla is one of those selections that offers today's hurried gardeners easy-to-grow, environmentally friendly plants that aesthetically enhance the home landscape.

The perilla is not very well-known. A few gardeners may be familiar with the old-fashioned Perilla frutescens, which almost looks like a small basil and is used as such, but Magilla is different.

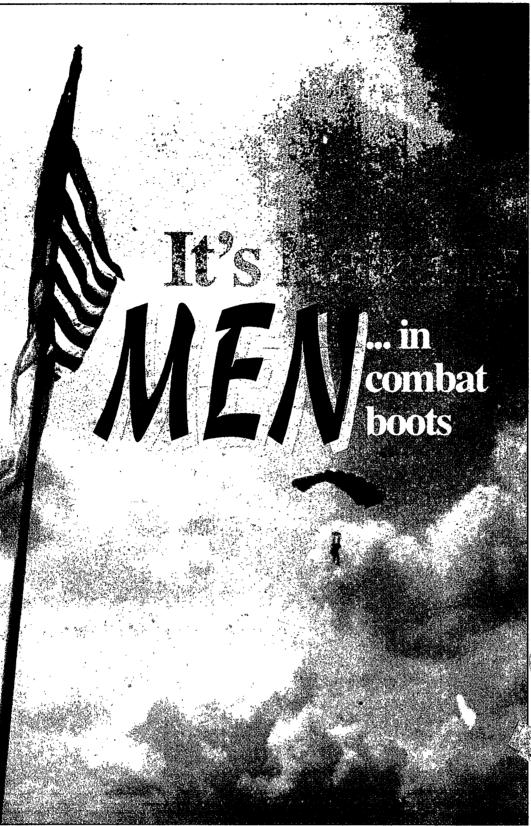

Magilla easily reaches 24 inches tall and has rounded foliage displaying brilliant splashes of hot pink, deep plum and green. These colors develop best in sun or bright, filtered light.

You could not ask for a better plant to get your chil-

Achievement Academy announced recenty that Louis Edward Prendergast III from Bay St. Louis has been named a United States National Award Winner in Foreign

This award is a prestigious honor very few students can ever hope to attain. In fact, the Academy recognizes fewer than 10 percent of all American high school students.

Prendergast, who now attends Bay High School, was nominated for this national award by Joe Shaw, a coach at the middle school.

Prendergast will appear in United States Achievement Academy Official Yearbook, which is published nationally.

"Recognizing and supporting our youth is more important than ever before in America's history. Certainly, United States Achievement Academy winners should be congratulated and appreciated for their dedication to excellence and achievement," said Dr. George Stevens, Executive Director of the United States Achievement Academy.

The Academy selects USAA winners upon the exclusive recommendation of teachers, coaches, counselors, and other qualified sponsors and upon the Standards of Selection set forth by the Academy. The criteria for selection are a student's academic performance, interest and aptitude, leadership qualities, responsibility, enthusiasm, motivation to learn and improve, citizenship, attitude and cooperative spirit, dependability, and recommendation from a teacher or direc-

The final pieces of hardware were passed out to the 2003 Bay High Lady Tigers basketball team commemorating their legendary run to the Class 4A state championship on Tuesday, August 5.

The rings were presented to team members and head coach Debbie Triplett at a special session called for the Bay-Waveland School District. On hand to present the rings were Dr. Kim Stasny, superintendent, Dr. Sherry Ponder, board member, and Coach Clevan Williams, board member.

The rings were designed by Herff-Jones of Jackson and were ordered in either gold or silver. The royal blue stone was encrusted with the ring featured the players name and number, the year of the champi onship, and the team's record of 35-

Contest to develop new Rebel mascot

THE SEA COAST ECHO

University of Mississippi Athletics Director Pete Boone Tuesday announced a nationwide contest to come up with a new Ole Miss mascot.

Contest rules call for "a figure who demonstrates a fighting spirit, exhibits independence, and challenges the status quo." The creator of the winning design will receive a $5,000 cash prize and two South Zone season tickets to all Rebel home football games for three years.

Boone said the university's 18-member Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics will select three finalists from the entries submitted. Students, active members of the Alumni Association, faculty and staff, donors to the athletics program, and season ticket holders then will have an opportunity to vote for their favorite design from among the finalists. The athletics committee will make the final decision based on input from the poll and announce the winner in late September.

"The decision to replace the 20-year-old mascot with a new energetic, vibrant figure has generated a great deal of interest," said Boone. "We've decided to open up the process for people to send us their suggestions and let our supporters have a voice in the selection.

or grandchildren involved in the fun of gardening. They will love the cartoon-sounding name and the vibrant colors. They will find it easy to grow as the center of a large, mixed container on the porch, patio or deck.

In the landscape, Magilla Perilla performs best in fertile, well-drained soil. If your soil is tight or heavy, amend with 3 to 4 inches of organic matter like compost or humus. Grow three to five plants spaced 14 to 16 inches apart for a breathtakingly beautiful display.

Use in combination with pink or magenta shades of Cooler Periwinkles for a look that will be as colorful and tropical as Carnival in

In fact, the vibrant, tropical colors of the Magilla make them ideal as understory plantings to large bananas, upright elephant ears or pink cannas. Be bold and also use Magilla with ornamental grasses. The most obvious companion would be purple fountain grass.

Keep Magilla watered and mulched during the growing season. Feed with a light application of a slowrelease, balanced fertilizer a month after planting and again in mid-summer.

Many gardeners first think Magilla Perilla is a coleus. It is in the same family and does have some of the same cultural requirements. For instance, a good pinching in mid- or late-summer, if needed, will keep the plant bushy.

Sure, we will keep growing the old "tried-and-true" favorites, but you have to admit, it is fun to garden today because of the new and unusual plants like this one that keep popping up.

Magilla Perilla has been available in very good numbers for a brand-new plant. If your garden center is out, don't fret. Get it next year or ask if they will have a new crop for late summer or early fall.

Warfare Command want to be here, said one member of Unit 20, and the Command has one of the highest rates of career individuals of any of the military forces. The extreme pressure of both training and missions tends to draw the men in these units into a close knit group and they consider their team mates as family or closer, as their lives often depend on their ability to work as one. Initial training is conducted in California, said Clark, but training is a way of life for the men. They must be ready at a moments notice to get on a plane and go

The parachute training takes place two to four times a year at Stennis Airport and the men said they all love to come here to train, one reason being the special treatment they get. Sue Richard

Richard named state president

On June 20-22, 2003, the Veterans of Foreign Wars (VFW) and Ladies Auxiliary of Mississippi held their annual State Convention in Jackson.

Sue Richard, a resident of Kiln, MS, was elected and installed as state president at the Ladies Auxiliary VFW's 63rd convention. She is a life member of Auxiliary 2539, Gulfport, MS. Mrs. Richard will serve as president for the ensuring 2003-2004 year, and will lead the Ladies Auxiliaries under the "Kindness Contagious - Catch It". Under Richard's leadership, members of the Ladies Auxiliaries of Mississippi will participate with the VFW in promoting patriotism, protecting veterans' entitlements, volunteering in local and veterans' hospitals and nursing homes, serving in the community, and supporting the VFW National Home for Children. The Auxiliaries also raises funds to support cancer aid and research; Operation Uplink program, which allows active duty men and women and hospitalized veterans to call home; and sponsors several youth scholarships and contests.

Serenity showcases 'Dark Matter'

BY SHANNON JENKINS Staff Writer

ocal photogra-Ray pher Kutos present a collection of his entitled "Dark Matter" during Second Saturday on Aug. 5 at Serenity Gallery.

His interest in astrology encouraged the title of the collection, which will be on display from 5 to 8 p.m.

Kutos read in a cosmology book that 95 percent of universe is not visible to human eye.

"This book made me take another look at my photography," he said.

He said this book, which offered the title "Dark Matter," seemed like a metaphor for the idea of viewer to look at what is under the surface of things.

Ray Kutos, above, will present a collection of his photography, entitled "Dark Matter," during Second Saturday on Aug. 9 at Serenity Gallery in Bay St. Louis.

art, which encourages the 'bad," he said. "It could mean magic."

With his current photog-

"Dark doesn't mean raphy collection, Kutos said he wants to "provoke thought as to what lies beneath the surface."

"In the photography I do, I'm not interested in making pretty pictures," he said. "I'm trying to make an emotional statement with the photograph."

To help viewers find a meaning in his work, Kutos entitles each photographs.

"Titles lead the viewer to look at the picture in a certain way," he said. "(However), I really don't think that there is (just) one meaning in these works."

His collection of about 25 images includes everything from photos of cemeteries to sequences of pictures that show a story. While some photos are new, many are 10 to 15 years old.

Kutos became involved with photography as a student in Chicago at the American Conservatory of Music in 1965.
